

Proposed Witchcraft Convictions (Pardons) (Scotland) Bill

Introduction

A proposal for a Bill to pardon all those convicted under the Witchcraft Act 1563.

The consultation runs from 23 June 2022 to 15 September 2022

All those wishing to respond to the consultation are strongly encouraged to enter their responses electronically through this survey. This makes collation of responses much simpler and quicker. However, the option also exists of sending in a separate response (in hard copy or by other electronic means such as e-mail), and details of how to do so are included in the member's consultation document.

Questions marked with an asterisk (*) require an answer.

All responses must include a name and contact details. Names will only be published if you give us permission, and contact details are never published – but we may use them to contact you if there is a query about your response. If you do not include a name and/or contact details, we may have to disregard your response.

Please note that you must complete the survey in order for your response to be accepted. If you don't wish to complete the survey in a single session, you can choose "Save and Continue later" at any point. Whilst you have the option to skip particular questions, you must continue to the end of the survey and press "Submit" to have your response fully recorded.

Please ensure you have read the consultation document before responding to any of the questions that follow. In particular, you should read the information contained in the document about how your response will be handled. The consultation document is available here:

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposed Bill? (Please note that this question is compulsory.)

Fully supportive

Q2. Do you think legislation is required, or are there other ways in which the proposed Bill's aims could be achieved more effectively? Please explain the reasons for your response.

This legislation is required for the reasons clearly laid out in the Bill. Currently those people who were convicted and executed under The Witchcraft Act (1563) are forever unjustly recorded in history as criminals. This must be corrected if we are a nation that stands for justice over violence, prejudice, hatred and oppression. We must formally recognise egregious miscarriages of justice and stand on the side of the victims, not with perpetrators of state violence.

Financial Implications

Q3. Any new law can have a financial impact which would affect individuals, businesses, the public sector, or others. What financial impact do you think this proposal could have if it became law?

no overall change in costs

Please explain the reasons for your answer.

Since all the people this legislation would affect are long dead, I do not see it having any notable financial impacts. The value to Scotland, in terms of how we are viewed around the world, however, I believe is significant.

Equalities

Q4. What overall impact is the proposed Bill likely to have on equality, taking account of the following protected characteristics (under the Equality Act 2010): age, disability, gender re-assignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation?

Positive

Please explain the reasons for your response including the impact on people with particular protected characteristics

The injustice the Bill aims to rectify was directed, in particular, at people who today's legislation (The Equality Act) specifically addresses, ie. people were criminalised under the Witchcraft Act due predominantly to their gender (being women), as well as to disabilities and "difference". Misogyny is at the heart of accusations of witchcraft. Misogyny is still rife today and, if we are to even appear to want to change our society for the better, we must stand against it. Not only is this important in our own society, but the message this legislation would send across the world is powerful. Advocates against similar witchcraft laws in other countries will be aided as more countries renounce these practices. All women and girls are helped by every chink in the edifice of patriarchal control and misogyny.

Sustainability

Q5. Any new law can impact on work to protect and enhance the environment, achieve a sustainable economy, and create a strong, healthy, and just society for future generations.

Do you think the proposal could impact in any of these areas? (If you do not have a view then skip to next question)

Please explain the reasons for your answer, including what you think the impact of the proposal could be, and if there are any ways you think the proposal could avoid negative impacts?

Yes, this proposal will positively impact work towards a strong, healthy and just society for future generations. The legislation will demonstrate Scotland's commitment to addressing past injustices and the position that misogyny, prejudice and abuse of power is wrong.

General

Q6. Do you have any other additional comments or suggestions on the proposed Bill (which have not already been covered in any of your responses to earlier questions)?

I think it is shameful that this historic wrong has never been addressed. It is self-evident that criminalising people because they were called a name (witch) by others who had the power to have them killed is wrong. This is an excellent proposal that has no disadvantages that I can see.
