

Proposed Witchcraft Convictions (Pardons) (Scotland) Bill

Introduction

A proposal for a Bill to pardon all those convicted under the Witchcraft Act 1563.

The consultation runs from 23 June 2022 to 15 September 2022

All those wishing to respond to the consultation are strongly encouraged to enter their responses electronically through this survey. This makes collation of responses much simpler and quicker. However, the option also exists of sending in a separate response (in hard copy or by other electronic means such as e-mail), and details of how to do so are included in the member's consultation document.

Questions marked with an asterisk (*) require an answer.

All responses must include a name and contact details. Names will only be published if you give us permission, and contact details are never published – but we may use them to contact you if there is a query about your response. If you do not include a name and/or contact details, we may have to disregard your response.

Please note that you must complete the survey in order for your response to be accepted. If you don't wish to complete the survey in a single session, you can choose "Save and Continue later" at any point. Whilst you have the option to skip particular questions, you must continue to the end of the survey and press "Submit" to have your response fully recorded.

Please ensure you have read the consultation document before responding to any of the questions that follow. In particular, you should read the information contained in the document about how your response will be handled. The consultation document is available here:

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposed Bill? (Please note that this question is compulsory.)

Fully supportive

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposed Bill? (Please note that this question is compulsory.)

Please explain the reasons for your response.

I am fully supportive of this bill as I believe that a pardon is required to redress atrocities carried out upon innocent woman and men of Scotland during the time of the witch trials.

Q2. Do you think legislation is required, or are there other ways in which the proposed Bill's aims could be achieved more effectively? Please explain the reasons for your response.

I believe that there should be a monument to commemorate and remember those who were convicted and accused during the witch trials in Scotland. I also feel that there should be a centre or museum where people can be educated about the history of the witch trials and I feel that some form of education about this part of Scottish history should be taught in Scottish schools to educate for future generations.

Financial Implications

Q3. Any new law can have a financial impact which would affect individuals, businesses, the public sector, or others. What financial impact do you think this proposal could have if it became law?

no overall change in costs

Please explain the reasons for your answer.

I think that an official pardon for those accused and found guilty of witchcraft in Scotland by the Scottish government would have little cost and is a necessary expense to redress this part of our history. I do think that if the government were to go further there would be some costs involved to commission an appropriate monument, museum and to provide education on the subject.

Equalities

Q4. What overall impact is the proposed Bill likely to have on equality, taking account of the following protected characteristics (under the Equality Act 2010): age, disability, gender re-assignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation?

Positive

Please explain the reasons for your response including the impact on people with particular protected characteristics

This bill would have a hugely positive effect on equality in Scotland and set an example for other countries whom are still convicting people of witchcraft.

Sustainability

Q5. Any new law can impact on work to protect and enhance the environment, achieve a sustainable economy, and create a strong, healthy, and just society for future generations.

Do you think the proposal could impact in any of these areas? (If you do not have a view then skip to next question)

Please explain the reasons for your answer, including what you think the impact of the proposal could be, and if there are any ways you think the proposal could avoid negative impacts?

This bill would make our society more just and fair as we acknowledge the wrongs committed against people who were accused and convicted of witchcraft, the majority of whom were women. It would also be important to highlight and educate the issue for future generations. Education could also avoid any negative impacts (in the form of criticism) that may come from this bill.

General

Q6. Do you have any other additional comments or suggestions on the proposed Bill (which have not already been covered in any of your responses to earlier questions)?

I think that this is an important moment in time to be able to acknowledge the wrongful accusations and convictions of our ancestors in order to move forward as a society and a nation. By taking this step we can strive for a more equal and tolerant country. In my opinion, this would be a starting point to lead to education on the subject and a national monument and museum. Only then will we fully recognise and reflect on historical injustices of the past and those whom suffered can be suitably commemorated.
